The aim of this conference is to draw on the experience and the success stories of the Visegrád Group (V4), comprising the Czech Republic, Hungary, Poland and Slovakia. The V4 has formed an alliance after the political changes that took place in the 1990s. Now, all four nations are high-income countries and enjoy steady economic growth. If counted as a single entity, the V4 is the seventh largest economy in Europe and the 15th in the world. The purpose of the conference is to transfer knowledge related to selected economic transformation processes that is of interest for current Egyptian economic reform plans. In particular, the conference will discuss the economic and political transformation in the 1990s, public and private sectors cooperation in the experience of the V4, EU integration as a catalyst for reform and the role of the energy sector in supporting the transformation process.

Simultaneous interpretation will be provided.
